

PUBLICATIONS RELATED TO CO-EVOLUTION

Lichtwardt, R. W., M. C. Williams, L. C. Ferrington and B. L. Hayford. 1997. Harpellales: Generic Confusion due to Precocious Development. Mycologia 89(1): 109-113.

Slaymaker, A., L. C. Ferrington Jr. and R. W. Lichtwardt. 1998. Chironomidae-Trichomycete Associations: A literature review. Journal of the Kansas Entomological Society 71:490-500

Lichtwardt, R. W., L. C. Ferrington, Jr., and C. Lopez-Lastra. 1999. Trichomycetes in Argentinean Aquatic Insect Larvae. Mycologia 91(6): 1060-1082.

Ferrington, L. C. Jr., R. W. Lichtwardt and B. L. Hayford. 2000. Smittium gravimetallum (Trichomycetes: Harpellales), a new species of gut fungus from Dicrotendipes fumidus (Johannsen)(Diptera: Chironomidae) in a metal-polluted stream. pp. 253-258, In: Late 20th Century Research on Chironomidae. O. Hoffrichter (ed.) Shaker Verlag, Aachen, GD. 661 pp.

Ferrington, L. C., Jr. M. White and R. W. Lichtwardt. 2003. A new genus of Trichomycetes (Pseudoharpella arcolamylica) from Dixa fluvica Peters (Diptera: Dixidae). Aquatic Insects 25(2):85-94.

Ferrington, L. C., Jr., R. W. Lichtwardt, B. L. Hayford & M. C. Williams. Symbiotic Harpellales (Trichomycetes) in Tasmanian aquatic insects. Mycologia (accepted for publication, 2004).